Article 23 (1)(a)
Objectives of the AIF	On September 1, 2016, Daiwa House Residential Investment Corporation, a predecessor entity to DHR (“DHI”), and Daiwa House REIT Investment Corporation (“Former DHR”) conducted a merger (the “Merger”), with DHI as the surviving entity and subsequently being renamed “Daiwa House REIT Investment Corporation”. Prior to the Merger, DHI had aimed to secure stable mid-to-long term income and to achieve steady growth of its assets through primarily investing in Japanese domestic real estate primarily used for residential purposes in areas – mainly in the Tokyo Metropolitan area – with a certain population that are expected to maintain or increase their population level in the future. Following the Merger, DHR has shifted to becoming a diversified REIT that focuses on investing in logistics, residential, and retail properties as well as hotels as core assets, and also in office buildings, healthcare facilities and other properties as non-core assets. DHR’s portfolio after the Merger includes the residential properties formerly held by DHI and the logistics and retail properties formerly held by Former DHR.
Investment strategy	Prior to the Merger on September 1, 2016, in addition to property acquisitions undertaken by DHI's asset manager, DHI had aimed to secure stable and continuous property acquisition opportunities to achieve its objectives through utilizing its supporting companies, which also possess experience, knowhow and a performance record in the development and operation of residential properties. Following the Merger, DHR expects to achieve enhanced external growth potential and further internal growth opportunities through the shift to becoming a diversified REIT, improvement of DHR’s position in the J-REIT market and asset-management flexibility through scale enhancement, and acceleration of growth leveraging the value chain of the integrated capabilities of the Daiwa House group, which consists of Daiwa House Industry Co., Ltd. and its 267 consolidated subsidiaries, two non-consolidated subsidiaries, 30 equity method affiliates and four other affiliates, as of December 31, 2017 (the “Daiwa House Group”).
Types of assets the AIF may invest in	Real estate, trust beneficiary interests in real estate, real estate securities, specified assets and other assets.
Techniques it may employ and all associated risks	Prior to the Merger on September 1, 2016, DHI had focused on investing in residential properties which DHI anticipated will provide steady rental revenue, especially in the Tokyo Metropolitan area where there will be continued population growth even though the population of Japan as a whole is expected to decline. Following the Merger, DHR has shifted to becoming a diversified REIT that focuses on investing in logistics, residential, and retail properties as well as hotels as core assets, and also in office buildings, healthcare facilities and other properties as non-core assets.

The principal risks with respect to investment in DHR are as follows:

- any adverse conditions in the Japanese economy could adversely affect DHR;
- DHR recognized a substantial amount of goodwill in connection with the Merger, and any impairment of goodwill could adversely impact DHR's financial condition and results of operations;
- DHR may not be able to acquire properties to execute the growth and investment strategy in a manner that is accretive to earnings;
- illiquidity in the real estate market may limit the ability to grow or adjust the portfolio;
- the past experience of the AIFM in the Japanese real estate market is not an indicator or guarantee of the future results;
- DHR's reliance on Daiwa House Industry Co., Ltd. (the "Sponsor"), Daiwa House Group, DHR's support companies, the AIFM, and other third party service providers could have a material adverse effect on its business;
- there are potential conflicts of interest between DHR, the Sponsor, Daiwa House Group and DHR's support companies as well as the AIFM;
- DHR's revenues largely comprise leasing revenues from the portfolio properties, which may be negatively affected by factors including vacancies, decreases in rent, and late or missed payments by tenants;
- DHR's current portfolio consists primarily of logistics, residential and retail properties, the market for which may be effected by macro-economic trends and other forces which DHR cannot control;
- DHR intends to target in hotel properties as one of its core asset classes, as well as other types of properties including healthcare properties and office buildings, but has a limited track record of investing in these properties;
- Investments in hotel properties and other properties will increase DHR's exposure to risks associate with these property types;
- DHR faces significant competition in seeking tenants and it may be difficult to find replacement tenants;
- increases in interest rates may increase the interest expense and may result in a decline in the market price of the units;
- DHR may be adversely affected by defective title, design, construction or other defects or problems in the properties; for example, it was discovered in March 2015 that one of DHR's existing properties uses seismic isolation rubber products manufactured by Toyo Tire & Rubber Co., Ltd. ("Toyo Rubber") that do not meet government-mandated safety standards, and DHR later reached an agreement with Toyo Rubber to be compensated for this matter;
- risks related to properties located on reclaimed land, including building subsidence;

- DHR may suffer large losses if any of the properties incurs damage from a natural or man-made disaster;
- a large proportion of the properties in DHR's portfolio is concentrated in Tokyo Metropolitan area;
- many of DHR's properties, including most of its logistics properties, cater to a single tenant or a small number of tenants, which may make it difficult to find substitute tenants;
- DHR relies on key tenants for certain of its properties;
- any inability to obtain financing for future acquisitions could adversely affect the growth of the portfolio;
- DHR's failure to satisfy a complex series of requirements pursuant to Japanese tax regulations would disqualify DHR from certain taxation benefits and significantly reduce the cash distributions to the unitholders;
- the ownership rights in some of the properties may be declared invalid or limited; and
- the offer of special discounts at Daiwa Royal Hotels to the unitholders may be amended or terminated without notice.

In addition, DHR is subject to the following risks:

- risks related to increasing operating costs;
- risks related to DHR's dependence on the efforts of the AIFM's key personnel;
- risks related to the restrictive covenants under debt financing arrangement;
- risks related to entering into forward commitment contracts;
- risks related to third party leasehold interests in the land underlying DHR's properties;
- risks related to holding the property in the form of stratified ownership (kubun shoyū) interests or co-ownership interests (kyōyū-mochibun);
- risks related to properties not in operation (including properties under development);
- risks related to suffering impairment losses relating to the properties;
- risks related to decreasing tenant leasehold deposits and/or security deposits;
- risks related to lease terminations, decreases in lease renewals, tenant demands for decreases in rent and tenants' default as a result of financial difficulty or insolvency;
- risks related to the insolvency of master lessors;
- risks related to relying on expert appraisals and engineering, environmental and seismic reports as well as industry and market data;
- risks related to the presence of hazardous or toxic substances in the properties, or the failure to properly remediate such substances;
- risks related to the strict environmental liabilities for the properties;
- risks related to the insider trading regulations;
- risks related to the amendment of the applicable administrative laws and local ordinances;

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • risks related to infringing third party’s intellectual property right; • risks related to holding Japanese anonymous association (tokumei kumiai) interests; • risks related to investments in trust beneficiary interest; • risks related to the tight supervision by the regulatory authorities and compliance with applicable rules and regulations; • risks related to the tax authority disagreement with the AIFM’s interpretations of the Japanese tax laws and regulations; • risks related to being unable to benefit from reductions in certain real estate taxes enjoyed by qualified J-REITs; • risks related to changes in Japanese tax laws; and • the risk of dilution as a result of further issuances of units.
Any applicable investment restrictions	DHR is subject to investment restrictions under Japanese laws and regulations (e.g., the Act on Investment Trusts and Investment Corporations (the “ITA”), the Financial Instruments and Exchange Act (the “FIEA”)) as well as its articles of incorporation. DHR must invest primarily in specified assets as defined in the ITA. Specified assets include, but are not limited to, securities, real estate, leaseholds of real estate, surface rights (chijō-ken) (i.e., right to use land for the purpose of having a structure on it) or trust beneficiary interests for securities or real estate, leaseholds of real estate or surface rights. Furthermore, a listed J-REIT must invest substantially all of its assets in real estate, real estate-related assets and liquid assets as provided by the listing requirements. Real estate in this context includes, but is not limited to, real estate, leaseholds of real estate, surface rights, and trust beneficiary interests for these assets, and real estate-related assets in this context include, but are not limited to, anonymous association (tokumei kumiai) interests for investment in real estate. Pursuant to the ITA, investment corporations may not independently develop land for housing or to construct buildings, but may outsource such activities in certain circumstances. Investment restrictions DHR places in its articles of incorporation are as follows: (1) Restrictions relating to securities and monetary claims DHR will place importance on stability and convertibility of investments into securities and monetary claims, and it will not make investments aimed only at gaining positive management profits. (2) Restrictions relating to derivatives transactions DHR will invest in rights associated with derivatives transactions only for the purpose of hedging against interest risks arising from DHR’s liabilities and other related risks. (3) DHR will restrict its real estate investment targets to real estate located in Japan.

	(4) DHR will not invest in assets denominated in a foreign currency.
Circumstances in which the AIF may use leverage	DHR may take out loans or issue long-term or short-term corporate bonds for the purpose of investing in properties, conducting repairs, paying cash distributions, repaying obligations (including repayment of tenant leasehold or security deposits, and obligations related to loans or long-term or short-term corporate bonds) and other activities.
The types and sources of leverage permitted and associated risks	Loans or corporate bonds. DHR currently does not have any outstanding guarantees, but may be subject to restrictive covenants in connection with any future indebtedness that may restrict the operations and limit the ability to make cash distributions to unitholders, to dispose of the properties or to acquire additional properties. Furthermore, DHR may violate restrictive covenants contained in the loan agreements DHR executes, such as the maintenance of debt service coverage or loan-to-value ratios, which may entitle the lenders to require DHR to collateralize the properties or demand that the entire outstanding balance be paid. Further, in the event of an increase in interest rates, to the extent that DHR has any debt with unhedged floating rates of interest or DHR incurs new debt, interest payments may increase, which in turn could reduce the amount of cash available for distributions to unitholders. Higher interest rates may also limit the capacity for short- and long-term borrowings, which would in turn limit the ability to acquire properties, and could cause the market price of the units to decline.
Any restrictions on leverage	The maximum amount of each loan and corporate bond issuance will be one trillion yen, and the aggregate amount of all such debt will not exceed one trillion yen.
Any restrictions on collateral and asset reuse arrangements	No applicable arrangements.
Maximum level of leverage which the AIFM is entitled to employ on behalf of the AIF	DHR has set an upper limit of 60% as a general rule for its loan-to-value, or LTV, ratio in order to operate with a stable financial condition. Additionally, DHR strives to maintain its LTV within a conservative range of 40 – 50%. DHR may, however, temporarily exceed any such levels as a result of property acquisitions or other events.
Article 23(1) (b)
Procedure by which the AIF may change its investment strategy / investment policy	Amendment of the articles of incorporation. Amendment requires a quorum of a majority of the total issued units and at least a two-thirds vote of the voting rights represented at the meeting. Unitholders should note, however, that under the ITA and DHR's articles of incorporation, unitholders who do not attend and exercise their voting rights at a general meeting of unitholders are deemed to be in agreement with proposals submitted at the meeting, except in cases where contrary proposals are also being submitted.

	Additionally, the guidelines of the AIFM, which provide more detailed policies within DHR's overall investment strategy and policy, can be modified without such formal amendment of the articles of incorporation.

The Tokyo District Court rendered a judgement on July 24, 2017, confirming the reduction of the current level of rent by approximately 6% for the period from May 1, 2014 onward. DHR, through the trustee, appealed to the Tokyo High Court; however, the Tokyo High Court rendered a judgement on April 11, 2018, confirming the reduction of the current level of rent by approximately 6% for the period from May 29, 2014 onward. DHR disagrees with the judgement and appealed, through the trustee, to the Supreme Court on April 18, 2018. While we cannot predict the
